Time & Priority Management

Working Skills

This section explores how Time & Priority Management might show up for Andrew. Time & Priority Management helps focus energy on what matters most to deliver consistent, on-time results. Use this section to reflect on how Time & Priority Management contributes to team balance, delivery, and effective workflow.

14. Time & Priority Management - Prioritizing and completing tasks in order to deliver desired outcomes within allotted time frames.

Andrew can organize tasks but may at times misjudge workload demands. Clearer judgment about effort can help protect focus and reduce rework.

What People Might See:

- Others recognize dependability in him, though time and workload demands can affect consistency.
- He generally meets deadlines, though consistency under time pressure can vary.
- He can give attention to lower-priority activities before addressing more urgent demands.
- Sometimes Andrew underestimates the time certain tasks require.
- Andrew does not always sequence timing in ways that minimize duplicated effort or re-work.

Growth Activities:

- Ask three colleagues this month what signals show someone is dependable with time. Note any patterns that relate to personal habits.
- Track on-time versus late delivery for all committed tasks over three weeks. Note one recurring factor that influenced timing.
- At the start of each week for three weeks, organize tasks by priority before beginning work. At week's end, note one change in focus or outcome that resulted.
- For two weeks, track start and end times for one recurring task and adjust future estimates. Record whether accuracy improves.
- Across five days, streamline one recurring task or step. Record how much time or effort was saved.

This page defines each competency, shows your score relative to the population, outlines professional application, and highlights development activities.

Potential Strengths & Over-Extensions

This section highlights Andrew's highest-ranked competencies. These skills often act as key strengths, showing where capability and performance come more naturally. In some cases, strong skills can be overused or misapplied. Use this section to consider where Andrew's strengths add value and where balance may be helpful.

Possible Strengths

- Rebounding Quickly: Andrew regains focus after setbacks and maintains a constructive outlook.
- Understanding Unique Contributions: Andrew recognizes individual traits and needs with attentiveness and insight.
- Strengthening Service Relationships: Andrew responds promptly and respectfully, contributing to positive service experiences.
- Recognizing Efforts: Andrew acknowledges others' efforts in ways that reinforce connection and a sense of being valued.
- Building Connections: Andrew creates comfortable, positive interactions across a wide range of situations.

Possible Over-Extensions

- Overlooking Personal Limits: Andrew can push ahead without fully recognizing personal signs of strain.
- Optimizing Fit for All: Andrew may over-emphasize the importance of individual traits and needs.
- Stretching Commitments: At times, Andrew may take on additional requests that strain resources or expectations.
- Blurring Support Boundaries: Andrew can at times extend support beyond what is needed, making expectations or boundaries less clear.
- Extending Interactions: Andrew can invest considerable time in conversation, reducing focus on task priorities.

This page identifies your top 5 competencies. It highlights key strengths and how they naturally contribute to performance in the workplace.

It also highlights potential over-extensions, showing how overusing a strength may reduce effectiveness in certain situations.
